A Suit for Divorce and a Policeman Named as Co-Respondent-Wireless Stations at Cape Henry and Old Point Successful.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NORFOLK, VA., October 2.—The final separation of the Williams and Brown street car interests here and in Nowport News took place in New York to-day. The Baltimore interests, represented by Alexander Brown and Sons, have been in possossion of their roads hereabouts for several weeks.

JAIL CLOSED.

The jail of Princess Anne county is closed for lack of prisoners.

William H. Sharp, of this city, has sued his wife, Mary D. Sharp, for absolute divorce, alleging desertion. Mrs. Sharp is now a resident of Syracuse, N. Y., where the couple were married in 1896. Fourteen months later they separated. Professor Fessenden, who is making tests of a wireless telegraph system lie invented while with the Weather Bureau, announces that his stations at Old Point, Willoughby Spit and Cape Henry are in practical operation. He expects to work over far greater distances.

The Maine will likely get a big draft of men from the Franklin. She will shortly sail for Barren Island and thence to Culebra, on her trial.

Lieutenant W. W. Gilmer to-day reported as aide to the commandant of this naval station.

INCREASE FORCE.

A very large requisition for skilled labor was made by the departments of steam engineering and construction and repair at the navy yard to-day. One hundred and thirteen men were called in these departments. This is the largest single day's call this year. Ever since the rush of work began the Labor Bureau has called in from half a dozen to twenty-five and thirty men daily, greatly augmenting the force employed.

A number of men have been blacklisted for presenting fraudulent certificates, and this has cut down the supply somewhat. One of the saddest features of these forgeries was that they were committed by skilled mechanics mostly.

MILITARY IN

PETERSBURG

The Odd-Fellows of Petersburg to Organize a Company of Patriarchs Militant-Daughters of the Revolution Elect Delegates.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
PETERSBURG, VA., October 2.—The Adjutant-General of the State has ordered the military company recently organized in this city to be inspected October 8th at 7 o'clock by Assistant Inspector-General Jo. Lane Stern. If found to meet the requirement now existing under the government of Virginia volunteers, they will be mustered into the service of the State as a company of infantry unattachable, and known as the Petersburg Grays. The commanding officer is re-quested to report by Monday any signers of the original agreement to form the com-pany who have not been examined by the

Mr. George Wilkerson, who died at his home in Dinwiddle county Wednesday night, was buried yesterday afternoon. He was well known in Petersburg, where he lived for many years in the employ of the late firm, Noah Walker and Company, clothiers. He had been in feeble health for many months. Mr. Wilkerson was a good man and a gallant soldier. During the war he was a member of the Petersburg Riflemen, Company E, Twelfth Virginia Infantry, Mahone's Brigade, and was wounded in the battle of the Wilderness. They have moved one of their turners from this place and annexed it to that engine, and are now making headings there. Their object in doing this is to save hauling, which is a considerable item. This company is constantly buying more timber and new machinery. They were burned out about two years ago but they seen built sean and upon

Judge Nicol made the following statement to-day;
"I am being urged to accept the presidency of a banking and trust company that is shortly to be established in the city of Alexandria. I have the offer under consideration, but am as yet undeedded whether or not I will resign my judgeship to become the president of the new organization."

Judge Nicol further said that should he resign his action would be prompted more by the desire to resume the practice of law than to become the head of the commercial enterprise.

COMMITTEEMEN ELECTED IN WARD MEETINGS

A QUESTIAN OF PRIVILEGE.

The Special Report of the Danville Water Committee.

REPLY TO PUBLICATIONS

OLD AND HONORED NAME A Defense of its Course in Securing a Water Supply for the City, and Answer to Questions as to its Course.

Danville, Va., October 2d, 1903.

At the meeting of the Council of the city of Danville, held on Tuesday, September 25th, 1903, the following report from the Special Committee on Water was submitted and adopted and ordered to be published in The Times-Dispatch of Richmond, Va.:

Danville, Va., Sept. 25th, 1903.

To the President and Members of the City Council:

Gentlemen,—As a question of privilege, we bring to your attention a matter which demands some notice.

The Danville Register, in its issue of September 25th, speaking of the controversy between the Dan River Power Company and the city, made this statement: "It will be a great relief to the water drinkers to know that this matter is practically, settled, but whether the city has emerged from the long contest with as much honor as profit there is room to doubt."

This appeared to us, as it did to many conservative citizens, to be a very broad statement and quite insinuating. Being uncertain of the intent, we addressed a courteous note to the Danville Register, in which we called attention to the language above quoted, and stated that as members of the committee, representing the city in this context, we would be pleased to know what they meant by their statement. We expected a private reply and hoped that the language would be satisfactorily explained without recourse to publicity.

However, the Register, as did its afternoon counterpart, in its next issue, extended its attack and became openly insulting. Their reply you have doubtless read. In substance it says that the city's lack of isonor consisted in—

(1) Allowing the Power Company to work for eight years without protest.

(2) That within the past twelve months, after having allowed the Power Company to make contracts for more than interequarters of a millions dollars, the company was suddenly advised that unless it compiled with certain exorbitant and arbitrary terms or locate its plant within the taxing jurisdiction of the city it would be "held up" by an injunction, etc.

(3) That the city refuse

it would be "held up" by an injunction,

(6) That the city refused to consider in any manner or form the Power Company's repeated request for arbitration. Replying to the first reason assigned, the Power Company was chartered originally in 1895, but their developments were chiefly on paper until within the past eighteen months or more. The city, of course, did not interfere with plans which had not been matured, and of which they were not officially advised. In taking up options and getting together lands, the Power Company was cared for by a duly constituted directorate, and they were advised by able attorneys. It is to be supposed, therefore, that their attorneys who handled their property transfers kept them advised of their rights and privileges, as well as of the rights and privileges, as well as upon whom they might trespass. In addition whom they might trespass. In addition, the content of the Begister. (3) That the city refused to consider or the rights and privileges of an others upon whom they might trespass. In addition, the present owner of the Register, who is not a citizen of Danville, was a stockholder from the first, and he might have given the Power Company the advantage of such information as was beyond the ability of their crectorate and their role actorness.

yond the ability of their falcetone chief paid attorneys.

Replying to the second reason assigned, the files of the Register will show—
(1) That the city has taken no step without proper notice to the Power Com-

without proper notice to the Power Company.

(2) That each delay has been in deference to the desire of the Power Company for an extension of time.

(3) That the city has never advised the Power Company that it will be "held up" by injunction.

In other words, the statement of the Register is false, and that when the truth could have been obtained in the Register's own office, had the owner of the Register been seeking the truth.

Replying to the third reason assigned, we would state that our reports to the Council have been sufficiently clear on the question of "arbitration" in this particular case, and, with a settlement pending, we will not further argue it.

Respectfully submitted,

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

RADFORD, VA., Oct. 2.—Caesar's famous epigram, "I Came, I Saw, I Conquered," might truthfully have been quoted Wednesday by the Third Battery, Field Artillery, commanded by Capt. C. P. Summerall, which detachment of Uncle Sam's army reached Radiord at noon en route to Fort Myer, and received the biggest demonstration they have met with since leaving Chickama'uga three weeks ago.

The town turned out en masse to welcome the spidlers, and addresses were made by leading citizens.

The Third Battery is the famous Grimes Battery that opened the battle of Santinessed so fine an exhibit of military training.

The soldiers camped at Pulaski City Tuesday, and were given a hop at Maple Shade. Inn in the evening.

On reaching Radford, they marched at once to the Fair Grounds, where tents were soon pitched and dinner cooked.

At 3 o'clock the place presented an animated scene. In contrast to the dust-colored tents and kaki uniforms of the soldiers were nunerous traps, gay with the Stars and Stripes and the light-colored gowns of women and children.

When Mayor Hall called on ex-Governor Tyler for a speech he received an ovation from citizens and soldiers. Governor Tyler for a speech he received an ovation from citizens and soldiers. Governor Tyler for a speech he preceived an ovation from citizens and soldiers. Governor Tyler for a speech speech after which Belden Longley and Judge George in Cassell also made pleasing and patriotic addresses.

Capt. Summerall responded in a graceful and appropriate speech, after which the fitteen hundred people present were treated to an exhibition of bare-back riding that would have done credit to a circus or Wild West show. This drill is known in the army as Cossack riding, or the monkey drill. It was conducted by Sergeant Chilson, and showed wonderful training and skill.

Then followed a section drill of artillery, conducted by Sergeant Kelly. The counter march and reverse march in battle, with field gun and caisson, were executed at trot and gallop; cannon was planted with marvelous dispatch, and whisked off the field at a gallop. It was a realistic bit of acting, and might well have passed as a glimpse of the actual drama of war.

The horses, as well as the men, are finely trained, and some bear the scars of battle, received in the Spanish-American, War.

"The thorses, as well as the men, are finely trained, and some bear the scars of battle, received in the Spanish-American, War.

MRS. ALLEN HAS BEEN DESERTED

Married Husband a Year Ago Against the Advice of

Her Friends, (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) DANVILLE, VA., October 2.-The report from New York that Mrs. Charles T. Allen, formerly of this city, had been deserted by her husband, recalls the peculiar circumstances of the marriage.

Mrs. Kate K. Hazel was married at her

Mrs. Kate K. Hazel was married at her home on Cabell Street on March 22, 1902, to Charles T. Allen, who purported to be a New York laundryman. Rev. William Hedley, pastor of the Lee-Street Baptist Church, performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Hazel was a member of Cabell-Street M. E. Church, but Rev. B. M. Beckham, then pastor of the church, refused to marry her to Allen, it being even then rumored that Allen was already a married man. Other members of the church were called into conference by Mr. Beckham, who sustained him in his views. The marriage was the culmination of a friendship which first began through an advortisement in a martimonial paper, which advertisement was answered by Mrs. Hazel.

Mrs. Hazel. Mrs. Hazel,
Allen gave it out as his intention to open up a laundry in this city. In the meantime he said it was necessary for him to return home for the purpose of straightening out his affairs.

His bride accompanied him on his return, and nothing has been heard from the couple since.
